Who we talked to:

1,738 Property Managers

217 Association/Community Managers

1,118 Tenants

603 Owners/Investors

50+ U.S. Cities

Portfolio types:

86% manage other people's properties

1 in 3
manage HOA's

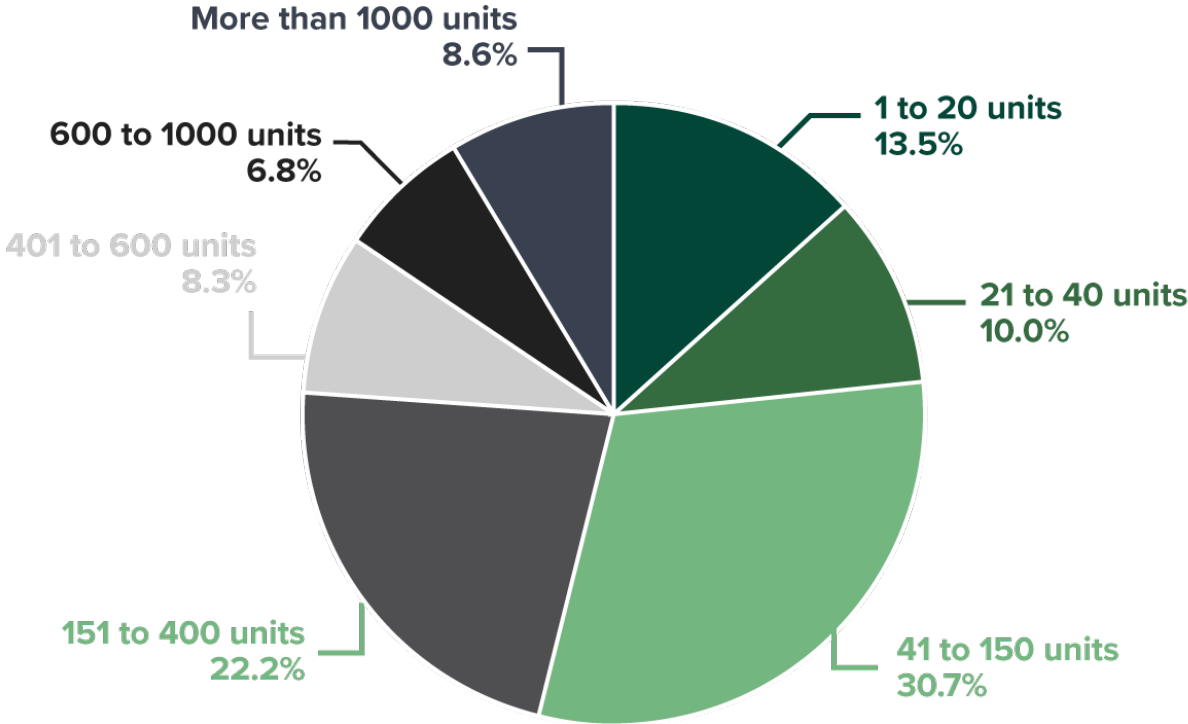

3 in 4
manage single-family rentals

2 in 3
manage multi-family rentals

Demographics: Number of units managed

Demographics: NARPM Members

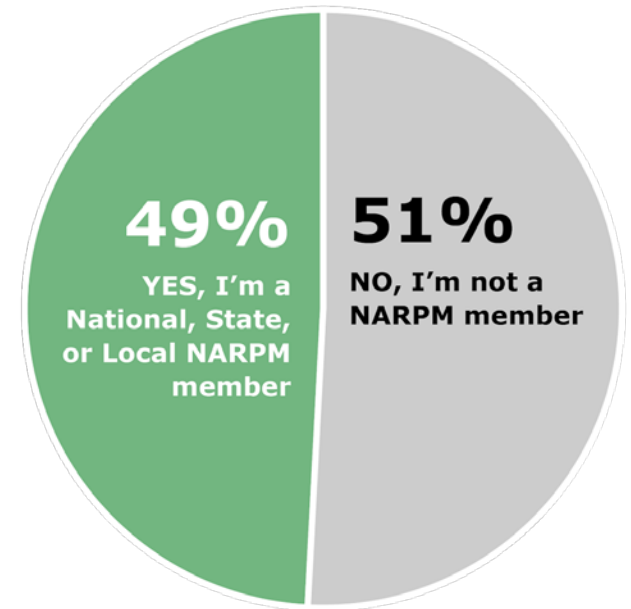

IN YOUR WORDS:

How Property Managers See It

“NARPM has equipped me to triple the size of my firm since becoming a member in 2011. The shared experience of other operators has been the key to my success.” (Birmingham, AL)

“NARPM is the reason my company still exists and is profitable. Before joining, I was just winging it and making mistakes. NARPM taught me how to run my operation legally and efficiently.” (Nashville, TN)

“I have learned so much since becoming a member. The classes are great, and just being with other members at the meetings and finding out that no matter what you face each day, someone else is facing the same thing, you are not alone.” (Warner Robins, GA)

State of the Industry

Buildium®

The last few years...

You've told us

what you're seeing:

- 1 Urgency around finding operational efficiencies so you can refocus your time
- 2 The coming importance of the "human factor" with the pivoting market
- 3 How the industry has refocused around "empathy-driven, service-oriented, tech-enabled" property management

...and most of all, how things are changing

Buildium*

This year...

We're here.

Property management has changed

Top Trends

Macro Trends:	This is showing up in:
Costs of Housing	Portfolio growth Revenue and profitability
Legislation and Regulation	Local, state and national laws
Industry Consolidation	Owner mix
Changing Tenant Demographics	Generations and geography
Proptech (and all Tech)	Tenant tech preferences Tech innovations How property managers use tech

Macro Trend #1:

Cost of Housing

#1: The Cost of Housing

The costs of housing

- Housing prices remain at an all-time high
- Costs related to managing housing are steadily increasing
- Cap rates continue to compress
- Owners are selling vs. renting

IN YOUR WORDS:

How Property Managers See It

“In general, cap rates are coming down for real estate, especially with single-family properties. It is becoming less attractive to be a long-term real estate investor.”
(Nashville, TN)

“Sales market=loss of doors=redirecting efforts to make more money on the same number of units or less. We’re struggling to maintain our profitability.”
(Raleigh, NC)

#1: The Cost of Housing

Portfolio growth is down

Fewer PMs are reporting portfolio growth - down 7.2 points since 2016

#1: The Cost of Housing

Impacts of Revenue

4 point drop

in expectations of growth in the next 2 years

3 point increase in expectations that revenue will stay flat

Property Managers' Top Priorities

	2017	2018	2019
Growth	38.9%	42.8%	47.8%
Efficiency	48.7%	39.0%	45.1%
Profitability	--	34.7%	31.0%
Owners	15.4%	20.3%	23.0%
Communication	20.5%	17.1%	22.6%
Balance	21.4%	12.9%	20.5%
Organization	20.8%	23.4%	19.1%

Vendors	13.7%	12.1%	11.4%
Technology	9.9%	15.2%	11.2%
Downsizing	1.8%	1.9%	1.6%

Macro Trend #2:

Legislation and Regulation

#2: Legislation and Regulation

Upzoning, rent stabilization, changing laws

- Upzoning and bans on single-family zoning
- Rent caps and rent stabilization
- Changing laws that impact the lead-to-lease cycle

IN YOUR WORDS:

How Property Managers See It

“As laws become more restrictive, we are forced to take additional precautions in our leasing processes and resident retention policies. This is not always received well by owners and residents. Our company is currently exploring options for educating our owners on landlord-tenant law and are hoping that by doing this, we will strengthen our relationships with our owners and make their experience with our company something to remember in years to come.” (Eugene, OR)

#2: Legislation and Regulation

Impacts and Opportunities

IN YOUR WORDS:

How Property Managers See It

“Changes and additions in building codes and regulations have made renovations and property improvements almost prohibitive. Increased labor costs have made maintaining properties exponentially more expensive. It’s more and more difficult to market the concept of real estate investment and becoming a landlord to investors and property owners.”
(Colorado Springs, CO)

“Increasingly restricted laws and ordinances will dissuade many rental property investors from trying to manage their own properties. Well-educated, technically trained, and highly ethical property managers will be in greater demand.”
(Kansas City, MO)

Macro Trend #3:

Industry Consolidation

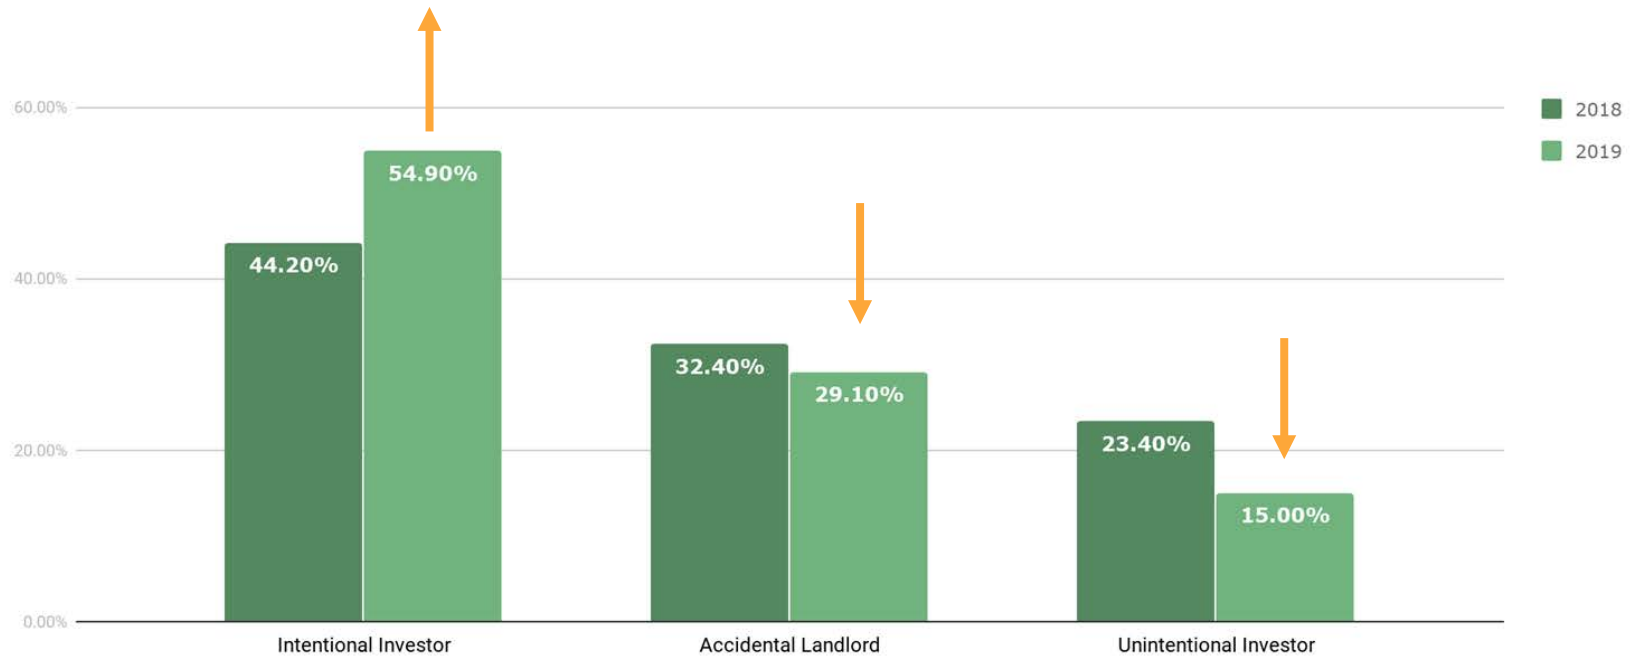

Buildium®

#3: Industry Consolidation

Owner/investor changes

#3: Industry Consolidation

More owner/investor changes

1. Institutional investors are becoming 'national landlords'
2. Investors are consolidating into larger conglomerates
3. Developers are building "single family, built to rent" communities

IN YOUR WORDS:

How Property Managers See It

"Institutionalized investors will continue to buy up rental income properties over the private investors, tipping the rent scales out of tenants' reach."
(Atlanta, GA)

"I see the market getting tighter and tighter for the little guy as Wall Street big money invests heavily in acquiring portfolios. We will always win on service, though."
(Phoenix, AZ)

The future of property management

- Property managers play a critical, more consultative role as regulations complicate ownership
- Relationships are still at the heart of property management, despite proptech hype
- Creating high-touch, personalized experiences are critical

What you can do

Focus on owner and tenant experiences

- Prioritize the human relationships and the value you add
- Look at what expertise-based services you can offer, and monetize them
- Have a 'hospitality' mindset

"We'll become more profitable by taking care of our property owners, and can do that by ensuring that our residents are happy—and then they'll stay longer and pay slightly higher rent over time. Everyone wins!"
(Austin, TX)

What you can do

Focus on owner and tenant experiences

Focus on your local expertise

- Property ownership might be national, but management is inherently hyper-local
- Stay on top of what's going on in local regulations and trends
- Stay connected with learning and community organizations like NARPM

“Increasingly restrictive laws and ordinances will dissuade many rental property investors from trying to manage their own properties. Well-educated, technically trained, and highly ethical property managers will be in greater demand.”
(Kansas City, MO)

“Membership in NARPM was one of the best decisions I made. It has not only added value by opening up networking with other property managers, but the recognition of my membership and the achievements of the RMP & MPM designations have earned me countless business opportunities.” (Austin, TX)

Buildium*

What you can do

Focus on owner and tenant experiences

2

Focus on your local expertise

Embrace proptech

- Make it work for you with process and transaction-oriented services
- Focus on operational efficiencies
- Don't get distracted by buzzwords and hype

“Basically, anything that does not need a human being to be in charge of it, without affecting our customer-obsessed culture, is of the utmost importance to us.” (Bremerton, WA)

Buildium*

Focus on the human experience

You can't build an app for that.
